

CLAIMS

1. An article tracking device, further comprising:

the beacon transmitter;

means to detect when the beacon transmitter is moved beyond the preselected area; and means to automatically activate the beacon transmitter when it is moved beyond the predetermined location; whereby the beacon transmitter will automatically activate and transmit position location information when it is moved outside of a preselected area.

2. A device, as in claim 1, where an:

the device is a flexible device sized to fit within a stack of currency.

3. A device, as in claim 1, further comprising:

a GPS receiver having means to determine from GPS satellite data the position of the device;

means to transmit the GPS location data to a tracking station.